

Description

This formula consists of having the last cover of the magazine as well as a number of inside pages printed upside down so as to give the reader the impression that they are the first pages of a separate second magazine.

The advertiser may also create a title logo of his own. The logo of the magazine must not be shown on the cover of the tête-bêche.

